Author Nancy Eidsvik, MA, was the first woman ever elected to serve as the president of her local Rotary Club, and she undertook this community-based action research study to examine how the Rotary Club of Prince Rupert could best expand its volunteer service to the community. Her research, originally appearing in her master’s thesis, provided members of the Rotary Club and the community with the opportunity to share their impressions and experiences of the Rotary Club. It offered an avenue for participation in establishing recommendations to strengthen the Rotary Club’s presence in the community. She relied on a broad range of research methods, including focus groups, world café, interviews, and surveys. Ethical considerations included confidentiality, free and informed consent, minimizing harm, and maximizing benefits. She shares her recommendations to expand public awareness of the Rotary Club, establish a strategic plan to address organizational effectiveness, and encourage key planning to identify opportunities for volunteer services. These recommendations can be used by other Rotary Clubs and service organizations, to assist them evaluate and strategize how to best expand their volunteer services to their communities. The Rotary Club of Duarte, California, was chartered in District 530 in 1952. But just before its twenty-fifth birthday in 1976, the Duarte club violated Rotary’s bylaws by inviting women to join, ultimately causing its charter to be unceremoniously revoked by Rotary International. Undeterred, the club renamed itself the Ex-Rotary Club of Duarte and its members continued on their quest not to be outcasts of one of the greatest humanitarian organizations in the world. Filled with facts and personal anecdotes, the first woman president in Rotary International shares a fascinating glimpse into the journey of the Duarte club. Sylvia Whitlock, who was present as the club enlisted help from the American Civil Liberties Union and took the case through the California court system until a landmark decision in May 1987, details the circumstances of the case as women struggled to attain equal rights, her role in the process, conversations with participants and onlookers, and the benefits she has gained personally through her own membership. Women Also Serve shares a compelling history of the Duarte Rotary Club and its lofty undertaking to recruit women into its chapter through the perspective of one who was there. Women have always been active participants in the work of Rotary International. This book briefly describes the history of Rotary and the journey towards women's acceptance as members in their own right. Now more than 30 years later we capture the stories of some of the women who have contributed to the work of Rotary in District 9510. In their journeys we see the importance of fellowship, passion to help others and their leadership qualities in the success of many Rotary activities. It demonstrates what Rotarians can achieve and in particular what women can achieve though their association with Rotary. In 1990, a group of people intervened to give Wooj Byun a new life. They were not celebrities with enormous bank accounts or superheroes with long, flowing capes. They were humble Rotarians from Susan, Korea, Byun's hometown. Their gift? A Rotary international Ambassadorial Scholarship. With this simple gesture, they created the path for Byun to become an American student, lawyer, global citizen- and Rotarian. From that moment on, Byun was committed to Rotary's motto of "service above self." Originally joining Rotary as a way to pay back his scholarship, he quickly embraced the organization's giving spirit, freely donating his time and talents to help make the world a better place. In My Rotary Journey. Byun details how he tutored a group of elderly Korean immigrants so they could pass the US citizenship test, organized a concert by a disabled Korean pianist to inspire a boy with the same handicap, wrote multiple books to help Koreans in the United States understand the legal system, helped an adopted American woman find her birth mother in Korea, and was a tireless cheerleader for Rotary locally, nationally, and internationally by serving as president of the Rotary Club in Edina, Minnesota. With his own brand of wit and an observational style that could only come from a true global citizen. Byun shares his heartfelt and humorous personal stories, aiming to inspire young and old to become a new generation of Rotarians and take up the call of service above self. Membership in Service Clubs provides the first rigorous assessment of the activities of Rotary, a global service organization founded in 1905 that implements projects and helps build goodwill and peace throughout the world. Placing the clubs in the context of twentieth-century middle-class culture, Charles maintains that they represented the response of locally oriented, traditional middle-class men to societal changes. The groups emerged at a time when service was becoming both a middle-class and a business ideal. As voluntary associations, they represented a shift in organizing rationale, from fraternalism to service. The clubs and their ideology of service were welcome as a unifying force at a time when small cities and towns were beset by economic and population pressures.
