

SHARED DECISION MAKING WITH YOUNG PEOPLE

Thursday, 28th September 2017

3.30pm – 5pm

B404, College Lane campus, University of Hertfordshire

Working in partnership with young people facing mental health issues and their parents on achieving shared decisions.

You are invited to a seminar on this important, but often neglected, issue to be given by Dr. Magenta Simmons.

Based at the Orogen Centre for Youth Mental Health in Melbourne University, Dr. Simmons is internationally renowned for her innovative work on this issue.

Dr Simmons is also currently collaborating with the Anna Freud Centre and the centre for EPPI (evidence for policy and practice information), based at University College London.

University of Hertfordshire UH School of Health and Social Work

Putting young people at the centre of decisions about their lives

Developing shared decision tools

Working with parents alongside young people

To book your place on this free event, please register via the Eventbrite link below no later than 15th September 2017:

please click here

For any further queries, please contact Tina Saunders at t.saunders@herts.ac.uk or Professor Shula Ramon at s.ramon@herts.ac.uk